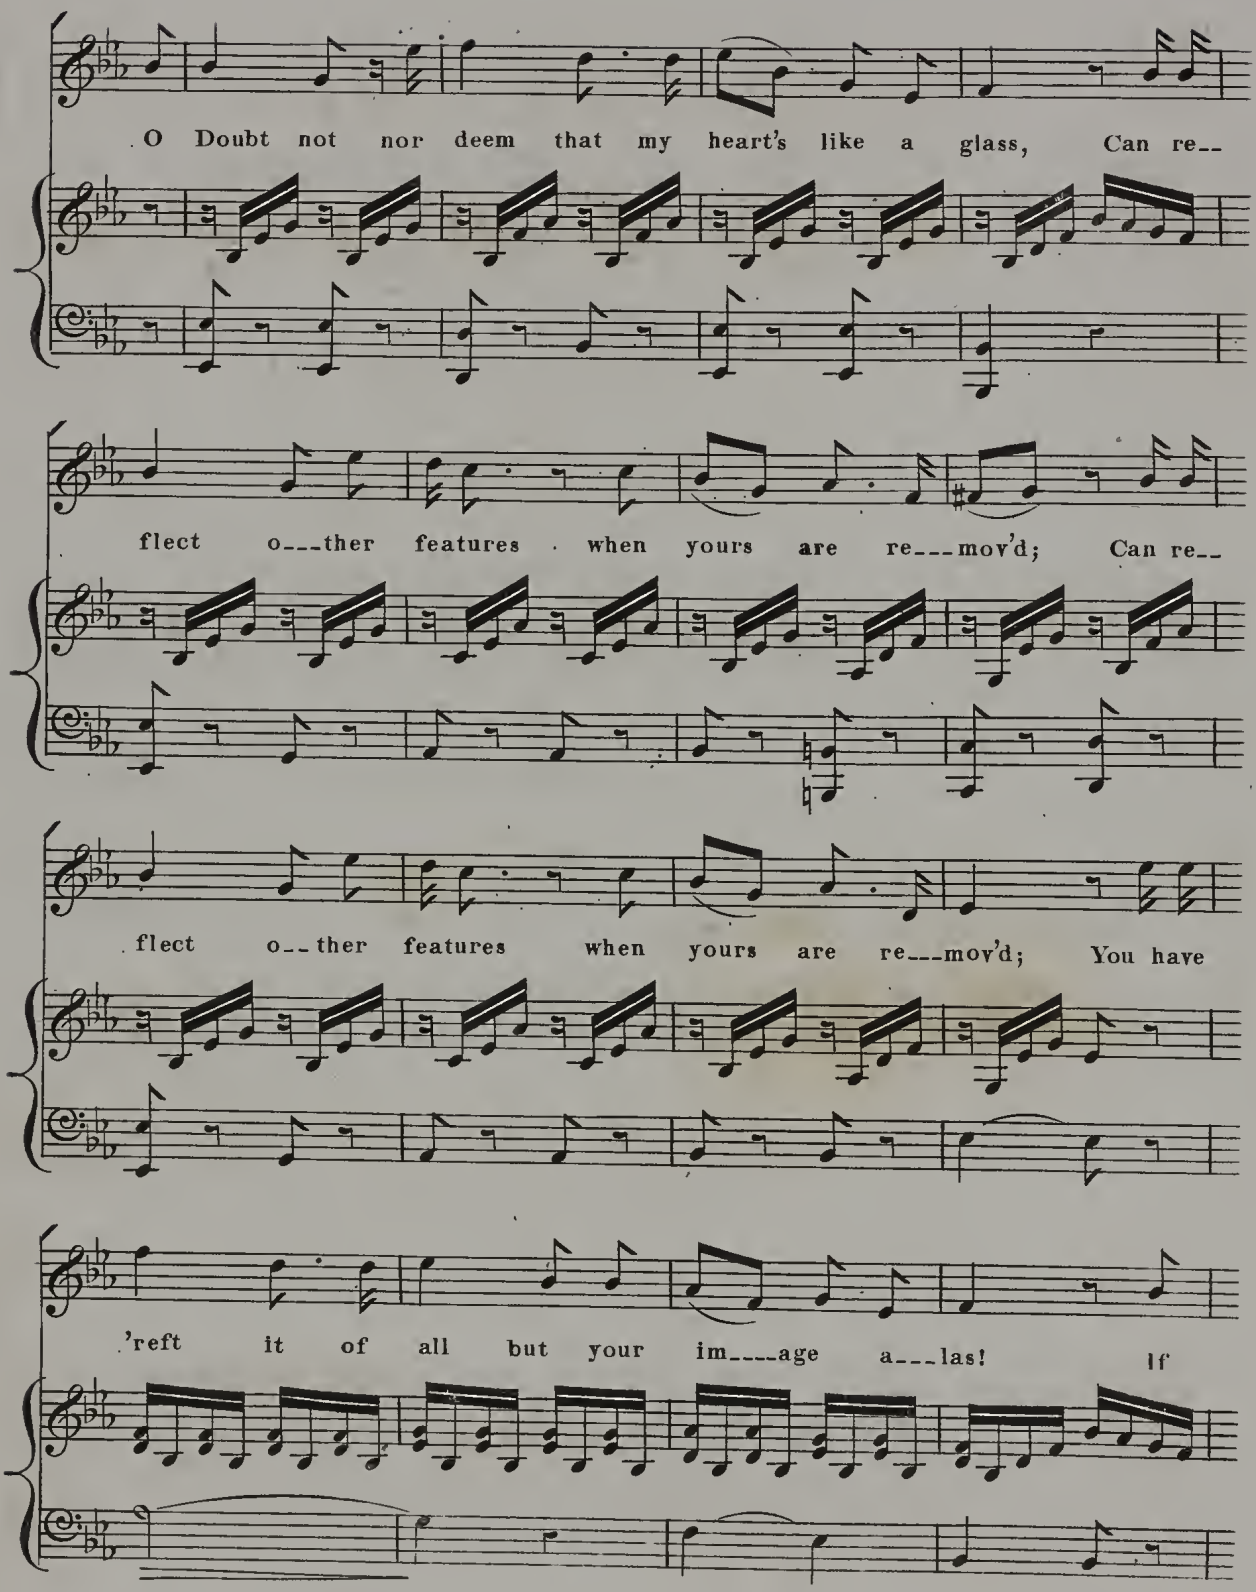
2



O Doubt not nor deem that my heart's like a glass, Can re-- flect o---ther features when yours are re---mov'd; Can re-- flect o--ther features when yours are re---mov'd; You have 'reft it of all but your im----age a---las! If

2

I never deceived you, and yet you condemn,
Is this the reward my fond truth has achieved?
I turn'd from my friends, and prefered you to them,
If this be deceivin, you have been deceived.

3

Nor deem I forget, 'tho between roll the deep,
Oh! 'twere for my peace could that lesson be taught;
From the dream which recalls you, I wake but to weep,
If this be forgeting, you have been forgot.
